

I rarely do any major busy work for clients myself these days. Instead, I rely on a combination of outsourcers and white label marketing agencies to do all the work for me.

Imagine: You use this course to fill your inbox with local business owners who have problems or needs...

You look through this service directory for a service that can solve the business' problem and sell them on the solution.

You collect fees and pay a small portion to the service company or outsourcer to do the work.

These companies and partners offer everything, including SEO, social media management, google my business management, advertising, and more...

...everything 90% of your clients will ask for.

In most cases, your clients log into their account to see their dashboard completely white labeled with your information and company brand.

You collect your payment, drop them off with this 'client day care' outsource, and your work is done.
